MKHogwatch (MKHW)

Welcome to the MKHW team and thank you for volunteering your time and supporting a valuable biodiversity project

What is MKHW?

Local Citizen Science project organised by the Parks Trust's biodiversity team to investigate the population of hedgehogs within Milton Keynes

Why survey?

Hedgehogs are an indicator species that feed on soil invertebrates and the decline in their numbers nationwide signals a decline in the natural environment

When?

Surveying is repeated twice a year:

- Spring - April/May after hibernation
- Autumn - September/October before hibernation

Where?

Across MK at selected Parks Trust green spaces/parks and individual house gardens, just like yours!

Any questions, please email MKHW team at:

MK is great for hogs

Hedgehogs are now one of the fastest disappearing animals in the UK, with approximately a third of the population lost since 2000.

They are declining rapidly in the countryside and urban parks and gardens are of increasing importance.

The Parks Trust actively creates & maintains wildlife corridors across all their green spaces & parks.

We know that hedgehogs are found across Milton Keynes (through reported sightings and road kill) but we should do everything we can to maintain and support our population.
